Re: Complaint against Oliver for Congress and Georgianna Oliver

Dear Ms. Duncan:

This is a complaint ("the Complaint") pursuant to 2 U.S.C. §437g(a)(1) and 11 C.F.R. §111.4 against Oliver for Congress, the principal campaign committee of Georgianna Oliver ("Oliver Committee") and Georgianna Oliver, Democratic candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives from the First District of Oklahoma ("Oliver") (collectively hereafter "Respondents").

The facts below disclose Respondents' violation(s) of numerous provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the "Act" or "FECA"), and regulations promulgated by the Federal Election Commission ("FEC Regulations"). These violations evidence a willful and continuing disregard by Respondents of federal campaign finance rules governing loans obtained and/or made by a candidate to his or her authorized campaign committee, and the proper reporting of those loans and other expenditures.

The Complaint is filed by Shane M. Saunders ("Complainant"), a resident of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Violation #1: Respondent Oliver Committee has made prohibited loans to her authorized campaign committee and has failed to properly report the source of those loans in violation of the Act and FEC Regulations.

FEC regulations permit a candidate to make loans from the candidate's personal funds to her authorized committee. 11 CFR 110.10(a). Such loans are reportable by the candidate's committee. 2 U.S.C. 434(b)(2)(G) and (3)(E); 11 CFR 104.3(a)(3)(vii) and 104.3(a)(4)(iv).

A candidate's "personal funds" include amounts derived from assets that the candidate currently has legal title to or an equitable interest in, but only if the candidate also had a legal right of access to or control over the asset at the time she became a candidate. 11 CFR

100.33(a). A candidate's personal funds also include income derived from bona fide employment and income earned through stocks and other investments. 11 CFR 100.33(b).

If the candidate does not make the loan from personal funds as described above, the candidate may fund her campaign by obtaining a loan from a bank, but only if the loan meets all of the following criteria:

- The loan bears the bank's usual and customary interest rate for the type of loan involved;
- The loan is evidenced by a written instrument;
- The loan is subject to a due date or amortization schedule; and
- The loan is made on a basis which assures repayment. 11 CFR 100.82(a).

If a bank loan made to an authorized committee fails to meet any of the required criteria, the loan is considered a prohibited corporate contribution from the bank to the candidate.

Respondent Oliver has made prohibited loans to the Oliver Committee in violation of the Act and FEC Regulations. Recent newspaper articles indicate that loans made by Oliver to the Oliver Committee were neither made with personal funds, nor made by a bank as required by law, and are thus prohibited. See Exhibit A, Articles from the Tulsa World, dated October 16, 2008 and October 17, 2008.

For example, Respondent Oliver has admitted that a "significant part" of a $260,000 loan that Oliver made to the Oliver Committee came from the sale of a business called Apt Budget, which was not listed on Oliver's financial disclosure statement filed with the U.S. House of Representatives in August. See Exhibit A. See also Exhibit B, Oliver Financial Disclosure Statement. As a candidate for U.S. House of Representatives, Oliver is required by law to list all assets on her financial disclosure statement. According to Oliver's financial disclosure statement, Oliver did not have any legal right or title to Apt Budget at the time of candidacy. See Exhibit B. Therefore, because Oliver made a loan to the Oliver Committee using funds from this asset, Oliver has impermissibly made at least one prohibited loan to the Oliver Committee using funds from assets that Oliver did not have any legal right or title to.

The Oliver Committee also failed to properly disclose the source of over $415,000 in loans made by Oliver to the Oliver Committee. 11 CFR 104.3(a)(3)(vii) and 104.3(a)(4)(iv). On Schedule C of the Oliver Committee's Pre-General Report, filed on October 17, 2008 ("Pre-General Report"), the Oliver Committee willfully failed to properly report loans Respondent Oliver made to the Oliver Committee. See Exhibit C, Oliver Committee Pre-General Report, Schedule C. 11 CFR 104.3(a)(3)(vii). Because of the Oliver Committee's failure to properly report the source of the loans as required by the Act and FEC regulations, the general public is denied the right to know where money for the candidate's campaign has originated.

Respondent Oliver has utterly disregarded federal law by making loans from impermissible funds to the Oliver Committee, and by failing to properly report those loans on the Oliver Committee's Pre-General Report.

Violation #2. The Oliver Committee has failed to properly disclose the purpose of disbursements as required by federal law.

FEC Regulations require that authorized committees itemize all disbursements over $200.00, and report the name and address of payees, the date and amount of the payments, and the purpose of the payments, or a brief description of why the disbursement was made. 11 CFR 104.3(b)(4)(i). While "dinner expenses", "media", and "polling" are all permissible statements of purpose, phrases such as "reimbursement" "get-out-the-vote", and "voter registration" do not meet the requirements of the FEC regulations. 11 CFR 104.3(b)(4)(iv)(A).

The Oliver Committee failed to comply with FEC regulations when reporting the purpose of disbursements on its Pre-General Report. See Exhibit D, Pre-General Report, Schedule B, Example of Improperly Reported Purpose. The Oliver Committee failed to identify the proper purpose of several disbursements, and attributed an incorrect purpose to other expenses.

Responsibility of Georgianna Oliver for Violations

Respondent Georgianna Oliver is the candidate whose authorized committee has willfully disregarded federal law governing loans made to her authorized committee and regulating the reporting and disclosure of the committee's expenditures. The purpose of the Act and FEC Regulations is to assure and protect the public's right to know the source of money spent to elect federal officials. None of the provisions of federal law at issue in this complaint are new, having been adopted as part of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended in 1974. Georgianna Oliver is ultimately responsible for the financial accuracy of disclosures made by the Oliver Committee and is complicit in the Oliver Committee's violations of federal law cited herein.

Conclusions

Respondents, each of them, have violated the provisions of the Act and FEC regulations and should be punished in accordance with 2 U.S.C. §§437g(a)(5), (6) and 11 C.F.R. §111.24 for their ongoing violations of the Act and FEC regulations.

Congressional hopeful clarifies finances

Oliver also reveals that she has made another loan to her campaign.

WASHINGTON — Democratic congressional nominee Georgianna Oliver of Tulsa said Thursday that the money she personally loaned her 1st District campaign came from a number of sources.

Oliver said those included her salary as sole owner of EverGreen Solutions, cash in the form of distributions from that consulting firm, tax refunds and an individual retirement account.

She said her campaign incorrectly explained Wednesday that the money for her personal loans had come solely from the firm.

In offering that clarification, Oliver also revealed that she has made another loan to the campaign, bringing the total amount of nine transactions to $415,540.

She also addressed the sale of a second company, Apt Budget, of which she was president.

In August, when she filed her financial disclosure form with the U.S. House of Representatives, Oliver listed her position with Apt Budget but did not describe the firm as an asset or put a value on it.

One month later, she said, the software firm was sold to a Texas company for $400,000.

A large part of the proceeds from that sale were deposited with Ever-Green, which held Apt Budget's debt.

Oliver initially indicated that funds from that sale, which she could draw from Ever-Green as sole owner, were a significant part of a $260,000 loan she made to her campaign several days later, but in a second conversation, she said that was not correct.

She conceded, however, that the sale of Apt Budget helped her to take a cash distribution from EverGreen.

When pressed on why Apt Budget was not listed as an asset in her financial disclosure form one month before it was sold for $400,000, Oliver said the company had no value in August.

"The software we were developing was never finished," she said, citing the debt that was owed to EverGreen. "I had hoped to sell it for millions."

Oliver said she also owns investments in real estate that are not listed as assets on her financial disclosure form but allow her to take passive losses on her tax returns.

Her financial disclosure form listed as assets EverGreen, which she valued at between $1 million and $5 million, and three individual retirement accounts, valued at between $1,000 and $15,000 each.

House rules require the reporting of assets and liabilities with such broad ranges.

Oliver also listed a salary from EverGreen of $423,914 last year.
